Reunion Welcomed As Part of Living Spirit of McGill

Principal Morgan Addresses
Graduates at Smoker

ENTHUSIASTIC
GATHERING

Many Travel Long Distances
To Attend

TO leave the walls of McGill is by no means to be divorced from her — you gentlemen are still a major portion of our Alma Mater," said Principal Morgan last night in welcoming Graduates now assembled in Montreal for the Fourth Quinquennial Reunion. "Perhaps today you miss some things at McGill which you learned to love as a student; perhaps some of you think that McGill is not as she was in the 'good old days'. However, if you regard the matter coldly and impersonally, you will admit that these 'good old days' are probably distorted as well as coloured by the passing of years. No-McGill is great because she is independent—she may follow out what she believes to be her duty; and in the tradition of the Greatest University of Canada she must serve her time and people. As their needs change, so must the superficial features of the University; but behind all, the fundamental spirit of McGill remains immovably dedicated to Right."

Speaking before nearly three hundred graduates gathered in the Ball Room of the Windsor Hotel, Principal Morgan went on to describe the organization of the University today, paying high tributes to "the enthusiastic staff, and the finest body of students I have ever met at any university—they actually do work occasionally". In discussing today's convocation the Principal singled out especially Norton Evans, professor of Chemistry retiring after a half-century's association with McGill, terming him "Truly representative of so much that is best in the McGill tradition."

McGill Broadcast
The "McGill at Work—McGill at Play" broadcast last night dedicated to the Graduates' Society, was heard over specially installed microphones. Shag Shaughnessy, for many years football coach at McGill, relieved for Graduates dramatic moments in Varsity sport; Christopher Ellis landmarks in the University's scholastic progress, from the time of James McGill up until the opening of the present session. During the course of an illustrated talk on the National Parks of Canada, J. C. Campbell, Director of Publicity for the Federal Government, emphasized the value of the slogan "Conservation". He also pointed out the heartening news that last summer witnessed a twenty per cent increase in tourist traffic in Canada.

Grads From Barbadoes
Dr. Slater Lewis, President of the Montreal Branch of the Graduates' Society, hosts for the Reunion, drew attention to the fact that two graduates have made the trip from the Barbadoes especially to attend the festivities—Dr. Goddard, Med. '27, and Dr. Carter, Med. '38. Medical Graduates are joining with members of the Montreal Medico-Chirurgical Society at their annual convention. Today's session took place in the Children's Memorial Hospital, with the topic for discussion set as "Infantile Paralysis".

Following the speeches Freshmen staged a Derby, complete with the usual heavy wagers, rewarded for their efforts by a share in the refreshments. George Grande, riding "R.M.C.", and Pete Jochman on "U. of T." came out "on top of the heap".

Graduates' Athletic Club

All former McGill athletes—whether or not they were engaged or interested in the particular form of sports at present represented by the associated clubs of this organization—are requested to attend the club's first Annual Meeting, to be held in the Ballroom of the McGill Union, on Tuesday, October 27, at 8:00 p.m. Informal smoker. Refreshments. No charge. A cordial invitation is also extended to undergraduate athletes to attend.

Founder Edits Daily

Gladys Murray, B.A. '32, newly-appointed manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, returned to her first journalistic service when he acted as Editor-in-Chief of this Graduates' Issue of the paper which he founded in 1911. Pressure of business has made it impossible for Major Murray, much to his regret, to remain in Montreal for the full period of the Reunion.

NEW MATERIAL REPLACES OLD ON GRIDIRON

Many New Stars Rise to Fill
The Depleted Ranks

TORONTO HAS POWERFUL
COMBINATION ONCE MORE

McGill Backfield Impressive
But Dogged by Hard Luck

By D. A. L. MacDonald, sports editor, The Gazette, former sports editor, The McGill Daily, member of the classes of Science '24, Science '25, Commerce '27 and Arts '27.

AT the start of the current senior intercollegiate football campaign, a general whoop of delight went up from the McGill campus over the news that three young athletes by the names of Johnny Coulter, Hugh Marks and Joe Connolly were not returning to their studies at University of Toronto. Coulter, in fact, had been graduated and the other two, Americans from Rochester N.Y., had decided on other pursuits. The whoop of delight was inspired by the memory of what these three had done to a very baffled McGill football team about this time last year on Molson Stadium. If you were among those present you must have recalled that the Blues defeated the Reds by something like 18-0 and it was Marks and Connolly in particular with their basketball passes, lateral and forward, that caused so much anguish among the local following that afternoon. Their performance was quite one of the most spectacular ever witnessed on an eastern gridiron.

Quite naturally then, when news of their retirement from the Canadian football scene was known, there was general jubilation in these parts and though McGill, too, had lost considerable strength through graduation and in the examination room it was to be hoped that Varsity's greater loss was something that could be measured by touchdowns this fall.

However, after two appearances in the league games, it begins to look as if the canny Warren Stevens, Varsity coach, has uncovered enough material to make all and sundry forget about the brilliant trio that is gone. Ralph Ripley, catching half and quarterback, appears to have stepped very neatly into Mark's shoes, in the matter of flinging passes through the air and last Saturday against Queen's he just about tossed the Tricolor out of Varsity Stadium. It was Marks to Connolly last season and now it's Ripley to Holden, for the pair completed four passes against Queen's and three of them came in a row to put Cam Gray in position to drive a placement between the uprights.

That fellow Gray. He's back too and it's more bad news for old McGill. He was leading scorer of the college union last year and the season before, too, and twice in a row makes it look as if it isn't all luck on his part. Gray didn't graduate unfortunately along with the other three and he'll be on deck Saturday when the Blues come here to Molson Stadium.

Then there's Isbister. The big son of the former Hamilton Tiger who was later to referee in the intercollegiate seems to have found himself this season. It's Isbister's third in the college circuit and he was quite a sensation as a first year halfback. He could kick a ball 90 or 70 yards and though he always managed to out-punt his wings, you never could be quite sure that he wouldn't hoist the pigskin right out of the park. Last year injuries slowed him up a lot but he seems sound as a bell again and last Saturday he was kicking single points from his own side of the field. Too bad he didn't graduate too.

That in a few words appears to be what McGill will face this Saturday when the Reds tackle the Blues. So far the McGills seem to have had more than their share of bad luck. They have a fast backfield in McConnell, Merrifield and McArthur but every time they get all set to show their heels to the opposition in a league game it rains for a couple of days. Last Saturday they were bogged down completely on swamp-like field. Perhaps if they get some dry weather for the rest of the week, they may be able to flush some of that speed the railbirds who have attended practices say they can uncork. What with that Ripley and Holden and Gray and Isbister out there to throw passes and kick 60 yards, they'll have to run very fast to advance the ball as far as the Blues appear able to propel it through the air.

From the Chancellor From the Principal

YESTERDAY the fourth quinquennial reunion of the McGill graduates officially commenced. The 1936 congress of alumni and alumnae is a significant one in that it occurs at a time when there are important developments and great activity in the institution's life. It is a period of readjustment, prudent expansion and a general stock-taking. You are all aware of the measures which have been taken to stabilize the position of the University in order that it may fulfil its obligations to the community and gradually look to a future of security and increased usefulness. Likewise, you are aware of the plans which are under consideration to add to McGill's facilities. Much has been written and more spoken in definition of the functions of a graduate body and I know that each member grasps the full force of what these imply. Intermittently, however, interest flags and this can be attributed to various causes—some valid and others inclined to be the fault of the individual or the unit. However, there is one real difficulty, and that is the barrier of geography. A periodical return to the scene of the past can do incalculable good through the representatives who attend from all quarters, and these reunions can give a meaning and a purpose to the efforts of a corporate graduate body. I feel I should emphasize the opportunities which are now available to recognize in some tangible form the work of the University, and to those who come from a distance I urge you to impress upon your fellow graduates a realization of their responsibilities as these have been brought home to you during this session.

May I extend to all of you my very best wishes for a successful and enjoyable reunion.

(Signed) E. W. BEATTY.

THESE are great days for the University when she welcomes back to her halls and her fields the men and women who may be yesterday, maybe many years ago, worked and played within her walls and on her campus.

Her welcome is no cold formula but a genuine expression of affection and regard and with it she couples sincere wishes that you who return to see her will enjoy your visit. Changes you will find: they will be greater or less according to your particular circumstances. You may find them for the better and in some respects for the worse. I hope you will be critical, in the spirit of true criticism which is based on sympathy and enquiry. Then tell us what you think so that we may learn from your intelligent and sympathetic comment.

It may seem to you that the scene once so familiar and friendly is strange and distant; and perhaps that is inevitable. A university is in constant state of flux and ever fresh waters are flowing over the dams. Yet there remains a certain lasting quality hard to define but none the less real: McGill is still here, vital, palpitating, with her problems and her hopes, a living entity. Although your lines are cast in far off places you are still of her. Today you are with her and she holds out to you arms of tender affection and offers you a cordial welcome. She is conscious of the strength which comes to her from you and she is glad and proud to have you here.

(Signed) A. E. MORGAN.

Graduates Form Two New Athletic Clubs Chirurgicalians Ask Give Degrees in McGill Graduates Convocation Today

To Hold Annual Meeting of Parent Organization
Tuesday

With two new clubs added to the organization, the Graduates Athletic Club of McGill, sponsored by the Montreal Branch of the Graduates' Society, is entering a new season, which promises to be one of greatly increased activity.

The "Scarlet Runners", graduates' track club, and a Graduates' Hockey Club have been formed, and now join the older clubs: the Red Birds skiers, the Basketball Club, and the Swimmers.

The parent club is holding its first annual meeting next Tuesday evening, October 27, in the ball-room of the McGill Union at 8 o'clock. This meeting will take the form of an informal smoker, without charge. Refreshments will be served. All former McGill men who were interested in any forms of athletics while at college are requested to be on hand. It is expected also that members of present undergraduate teams will be present.

Edwards Heads Runners

Dr. Phil Edwards has been chosen president of the track and field group, the Scarlet Runners. Major J. Colin Kemp, B.Sc. '08, is Honorary President; Frank Nobbs, secretary. It is planned to have the Runners engage in several meets in the spring. At present many of the members are taking advantage of the facilities offered up at Molson Field, and are having frequent workouts.

The graduate puckchasers are not expecting to enter a team in any regular league this year, but plan to play several exhibition contests. A strong aggregation should be lined up from the many ex-McGill hockey stars now performing for the various local teams. Dr. R. B. Bell, McGill coach, is Honorary President of the Graduates' Hockey Club. Ken Farmer is president, Tommy Robertson secretary-treasurer, Jimmy Lalanne and Nels Crutchfield members of the executive committee.

Old Clubs Carry On

The previously-formed graduate athletic bodies intend carrying on this year after successful seasons in the past. The oldest of them, the famous Red Birds Ski Club has for many years been recognized as one of the premier Canadian ski clubs, and it brings a thoroughly established reputation to the new organization.

Quebec champions last year, the Basketball club will again enter a strong team in the Senior City Group. Carvell Hammond, is their new president. Professor McBride has been elected Honorary President, Coach Van Wagner, honorary coach, Dr. Donald Small, vice-president, and Al Swabey manager. They open their schedule next December 1st.

Two of the most active workers in the organization of the new association, Bill Sprenger and T. P. Howard, continue as president and secretary-treasurer of the Graduates Swimming Club.

Coincident with the fourth Quinquennial Reunion of McGill Graduates this week the annual convention of the Montreal Medico-Chirurgical Society convention is being held.

Yesterday sessions of the convention were held at the General Hospital. Today sessions will be held at the Children's Memorial Hospital and tomorrow the Royal Victoria Hospital will be visited. Concluding meetings Saturday will be held in the Royal Victoria Memorial Maternity Hospital.

Graduates of Medicine returning to Montreal for the McGill Reunion are invited to attend sessions of the society and may receive full particulars and register at the Reunion Registration Bureau in the Windsor Hotel.

Oldest Graduate Recalls McGill Of Sober Seventies

Difference of Opinion on Value of Freshman
Hazing

NOWADAYS you may think that you have a high degree of student control in your campus activities, and that such is only a modern development; but let me tell you, back in '74 we even made some of the professors modify their teachings, threatening to desert to Toronto if they didn't!

So spoke Dr. B. N. Wales, Med. '74, the oldest Graduate yet to register for the Reunion. Coroner of Terrebonne County for twenty-eight years, author of "Memories of Old St. Andrews", President of the Historical Society of Argentina, he said that he remembered working side by side with Sir William Osler, when interviewed by the Daily yesterday. "The thing which stands out most about my college days is the memory of my professors—H. P. Howard, Dean Campbell, Prof. Craig—all philosophers as well as teachers, men whom we admired and revered."

Asked his opinion on Freshman hazing, Dr. Wales' reply was an emphatic denunciation. "Never," he said. "It's childish and outmoded." Dr. A. Nicholls, Med. '04, agreed with him, along with Dr. E. M. Sharpe of the same year. On the other hand, G. S. Clarke, B.Sc. '22, found a good number of supporters in his contention that "Hazing was good enough for me and ought to be good enough for every other Freshman." Ye Reporter managed to slip away during the heated argument that followed.

Takes Place at Four p.m. in Moyse Hall

GRANT LL.D.

Beatty, Morgan and Chipman
Speak

Five distinguished graduates will receive honorary degrees at a special Graduates' Convocation today in Moyse Hall at 4 p.m., as the principal function in the fourth Quinquennial Reunion. The degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred upon the following who already have the McGill degrees shown: Dr. Maude Abbott, B.A. 1890, Hon. M. D. 1910; Nevil Norton Evans, B.A.Sc. 1886, M.A.Sc. 1892; Dr. William McClure, B.A. 1870, M.D. 1881; Philip Danckson Ross, B.A.Sc. 1878; Sherman Charles Swift, B.A. 1907.

Emeritus Professor W. W. Chipman and Principal A. E. Morgan will deliver addresses while Chancellor E. W. Beatty will welcome the graduates on behalf of the University. P. D. Ross will reply for the graduates.

The complete program follows: Prayer; Welcome by Chancellor; Hall, Alma Mater; Conferring of Degrees; Speech by Emeritus Professor W. W. Chipman; Speech by Principal; God Save the King; Benediction. Degrees will be conferred by Ass. Dean J. C. Simpson on Dr. Abbott, by Dean P. N. G. Johnson on Prof. Evans, by Prof. J. C. Meakins on Dr. McClure, by Dean C. S. Lealesurier on P. D. Ross, and by Prof. G. R. Lomer on S. C. Swift. All lectures between 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. today have been cancelled.

Graduates' Society to Receive at Windsor

Receiving at the McGill Reunion dance and supper in the ballroom of the Windsor Hotel on Friday evening at ten o'clock will be: Mr. John T. Hackett, president of the Graduates' Society, and Mrs. Hackett; Dr. D. Slater Lewis, president of the Montreal branch, and Mrs. Lewis; John T. Rhind, president of the Alumnae Society, and Mr. Rhind; Principal and Mrs. A. E. Morgan, and Dr. W. M. Brittain, vice-principal of Macdonald College, and Mrs. Brittain.

Others who have been invited to be head table guests include: Dr. and Mrs. P. S. Patch, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Gregor Barclay, Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Leggett, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Molson, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bourke, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bremner, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Cockfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Crombie, Prof. W. G. McBride and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Glassco.

All lectures will be cancelled between 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. today. Evening lectures from 5:30 on are not cancelled.

T. H. MATTHEWS,
Registrar.

Quinquennial Reunion Sees Many Graduates Visiting Familiar Sights At McGill

GYM CAMPAIGN AID IS URGED BY H. CROMBIE

Will not Countenance Failure
Montreal Chairman Says

DEFINITE PLEDGES MADE
AND WILL BE FULFILLED

Still Necessary to Obtain an Adequate Endowment Fund

IN a statement issued last night to the special graduates edition of the McGill Daily, Hugh Crombie, Chairman of the Montreal Alumni Committee of the Gymnasium Campaign, made clear that under no circumstances would failure be countenanced by those directing the effort. "We made definite pledges," said Mr. Crombie, "it is our intention to see those pledges fulfilled. We feel our work has not received in some quarters, the support it deserves. Why that support is lacking is difficult to understand. But our every intention is to continue, reawakening in all McGill men the loyalty and gratitude they should and must feel toward their Alma Mater, and enabling them to express their sentiments concretely through the gift of a gymnasium to McGill."

Mr. Crombie pointed out that the Gymnasium Campaign was undertaken only after careful consideration; the Graduates Society, representing the Graduates and past students at large, had definitely committed itself to provide McGill with a fully equipped and adequately endowed structure.

From certain graduates, splendid co-operation has been evident. A large body of enthusiastic workers has striven ardently, graduates in every walk of life, and in every corner of the world have dug deep and given generously that their university might not suffer from the lack of a need that has been glaringly apparent for half a century. "But," declared the Montreal Chairman, "that fine spirit, I am almost ashamed to confess, has not been sufficiently widespread." While enough funds are now on hand to build and equip the gymnasium itself, it is still necessary to obtain an endowment fund, the income from which will operate and maintain the structure in perpetuity.

The establishment of this endowment fund is essential to the success of the enterprise. McGill has necessarily been practising rigid economy, and is now in no position to assume further commitments in the form of gymnasium operating expenses. When the gymnasium is completed and turned over to McGill, with it must go the finances to cover all carrying charges, so that no added burden will be placed on the university.

Museums Display Special Exhibits During Reunion

Special exhibits at McGill libraries and museums are a special feature of the Quinquennial Reunion.

In the Redpath Library an exhibition of facsimiles of the early masters and of historical designs for stage scenery and costumes are on display. The drawings by old masters are faithful reproductions of originals in the Kunsthalle in Hamburg and Bremen, the Kupferstich-Kabinett of the museum at Weimar, and the Landesmuseum in Braunschweig. The collection is supplemented by 28 examples of woodcut scenes, reproductions of originals in Munich. Both collections were presented to the Redpath library by Lady Roddick. The exhibition of theatrical design, described as the "most magnificent work of the theatre ever printed," was presented to the library by Howard Murray, O.B.E.

In the Ethnological Museum, in the Medical Building, there are, in addition to all the regular displays, special exhibits of the Adney canoe and the Molson basketry collection, a catalogue of which is now being completed.

Throughout the reunion libraries and museums are open to graduate visitors mornings and afternoons.

Montreal Branch of Graduates' Society Is Acting as Host in Four-Day Ceremonies—Reunion Lunch Held at Windsor Yesterday.

FAMILIAR sights and old-time adventures at McGill are once more being reviewed by graduates and past students as they visit their Alma Mater for the first time in five years in celebration of the fourth Quinquennial Reunion held under the auspices of the Graduates' Society.

With the Montreal branch acting as official host, the four-day ceremonies opened yesterday and took the form of a Reunion Lunch in the Windsor Hotel, a Buffet Supper for Women in R.V.C., and a Reunion Smoker in the Windsor Hotel.

Visit Classrooms

Returning to familiar scenes, the former McGill students will find the university authorities and present study body eager to assist them in recalling college day memories. The university, of course, will be in session, but every opportunity will be given graduates to visit their old classrooms.

This afternoon graduates are invited to tour the many university laboratories and see the research work being carried on there. Special visits will be paid to the Macdonald Engineering Building where those interested in heat transfer, lubrication, electrical standardization and other special problems will be able to see the work in progress. In the Macdonald Chemistry and Mining Building laboratories will be in operation and those who desire will receive special attention in chemical, metallurgical and ore-dressing problems.

Honoured by Lord Tweedsmuir

Laboratories in the Macdonald Physics Building will also be open to visitors. Macdonald College, at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, has extended an invitation to graduates to visit the college and inspect the laboratories and the farms.

During the Reunion, the Graduates Society will be honoured by the presence of His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir who will attend the fifty-fifth playing of the McGill-Toronto Varsity football game in Molson Stadium on Saturday afternoon. Saturday night His Excellency will propose the toast to McGill at the Reunion Dinner.

Klein Talks On Zionism

Gathering for its second meeting of the session this Sunday, the Naccabean Circle will hear Abraham M. Klein, outstanding McGill debater of several years ago, who will speak on, "The Present Situation in Zionism." Mr. Klein has acquired considerable reputation in Canadian literature circles as a poet and is well-known in Jewish circles. The meeting will be held at 2:30 P.M. sharp in the Reading Room of the McGill Union.

Officers Elected By Graduates' Society

The following officers of the Graduates' Society have been elected following a by-mail ballot conducted during the last three months: President, John T. Hackett, K.C.; vice-president, Dr. F. S. Patch, both for two year terms; representative of the Society on the Board of governors of the university for three years, Dr. C. J. Martin.

Members of the executive, to serve for two years: Dr. D. Slater Lewis and General G. Eric McCuaig; members of the council of the society, also for two year terms: L. H. Ballantyne, Eric A. Cushing, Col. R. Fraser, E. A. Leale and Dr. Ralph E. Powell.

Players' Club

Casting will begin today for "Fly Away Home" at 3:00 and will continue as long as people turn out. Men are especially in demand. Anyone who was unable to be present at the meeting yesterday and who would like to register for the Players' Club, please come to the clubroom in the McGill Union between the hours of 10:00 and 5:00. Tenders are still called for.

For The McGill Daily

FIRST of all, may I offer the warmest congratulations to you, Mr. Editor, and to all your devoted staff. The MCGILL DAILY, from being a struggling, almost tentative, appendage to undergraduate activities, has become a well matured and robust organ of opinion. I admire not only the technical standard of production and the literary quality maintained but also the sturdy editorial independence and range of comment on world affairs.

It seems to me that the MCGILL DAILY is an expression of the McGill spirit, as inspired by the founder, James McGill, representing in its conduct and characteristics that fine idealism which has been carried forward by an unbroken line of great university administrators. May McGill continue to endow all who enjoy the privilege of feeling her influence with that kind of social conscience which knows stewardship in possession and responsibility in service. McGill represents in my recollection an oasis of detached thought amid a strange wilderness of confused action. Perhaps McGill and those other, not too numerous, university communities with the same fine spirit, will play a still greater part in the future world of action. Unshakable loyalty to fundamentals, tolerance and magnanimity, and above all, clear thinking, let these be McGill's contribution, not least by means of the MCGILL DAILY. May you prosper in your high endeavour.

(Signed) Gladstone MURRAY.

From Us to You

SEVERAL of us whose names appear on the masthead of today's issue of the McGill Daily are practising journalists. Others are engaged in kindred occupations. The fact that we are gathered in the old offices, in the basement of the Union where "work is so arranged as not to interfere with studies" (see annual call of the Daily for reporters) causes us to pause a moment and reflect that this little college newspaper taught us a good deal of what we know, or pretend to know, about this fascinating profession of ours.

Down here in the basement of the Union, a lot of boners may be pulled and a lot of "gee whizz" journalism may be perpetrated, but the mysteries of the "lead and the head" are made clear to the perplexed. All of us who worked on the McGill Daily have a sentimental regard for it. We talk about it when we meet and acknowledge what we have learned from it. Mostly, perhaps, we learned what not to do. But the knowledge of what not to do is wisdom.

May we suggest that those who today are galley slaves on the oldest college daily in Canada make the most of the opportunity which is being given them.

Defenders of Democracy

THE quality of its leaders is a true measure of the greatness of a nation. The appointment of the Honorable Herbert Marler as Canadian Minister at Washington is not only a signal honor for McGill but a wise and prudent choice on the part of the Government of Canada. One of the most brilliant sons of McGill, Herbert Marler has served his country faithfully and well by maintaining a spirit of harmony and goodwill between Canada and Japan when racial and economic influences alike tended to breed discord between the two countries. His example should fire graduates not only of McGill but of other universities to make practical contributions to international goodwill by devoting their ability and talents to public life and bringing to world politics the same clarity of educated thought. Today, when the earth resounds to the tramp of millions of shodded hoodlums trampling out truth, decency and freedom, the political liberties which the British race above all others have cherished and developed are in peril. Unless university graduates, in all communities not yet under the sway of war-mad dictatorships, recognize the danger and take up the task of the defence of our common liberties and civilization by bringing reason and clarity into politics, both domestic and foreign, the universities will have failed in their tasks. There are tasks for thousands of graduates, for thousands of Hercules to cleanse the international stables of Augeus, fit tasks for the sons and daughters of Old McGill.

McGILLATHOME AND ABROAD

(From The Gazette, Montreal, Saturday, October 17)

The value of a college education is a much debated subject. For many reasons it is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the contributions that a university makes either to individual success or happiness or to civic, national or world progress. There are times, however, when a great university takes occasion to review its past and turn for the moment from consideration of its present students to consider the fate of those who have left its halls to take their places in national life. On those occasions it is able to point with pride to the achievements of its sons and daughters who have made their marks in the world of affairs and to claim no small share of credit for their accomplishments.

Quinquennial Reunion

Such an occasion occurs in Montreal once every five years when graduates of McGill University from far and near return for four days to pay tribute to their Alma Mater, to renew old friendships and revisit old scenes. From October 21 to October 24 this year Old McGill will once again be host to more than a thousand former students assembled for the fourth Quinquennial Reunion of McGill Graduates, marking the hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the university's founding. Among this number will be many men and women, who have been notably successful in their life work. There will be many who will yet be heard from in Canadian life and there are many unsung heroes who perform simply and well their daily tasks.

More than 11,000 living graduates of McGill are listed by the Graduates' Society of McGill University which endeavors to maintain contact with former students of the university wherever they may be and whatever may be their occupations. On the list are doctors, lawyers, engineers, industrialists, writers, editors, architects, social workers, scientists and business men and women and housewives. Engaged in many countries and in many tasks, there lives extend the influence of McGill's teachings and traditions far beyond the college campus. McGill's graduates are to be found in the depths of Africa, ministering to the uncivilized natives; on the northern frontiers of Canada, pioneering in a forbidding land; in the capitals of Europe; in London, the heart of Empire, in the heart of China; in South America; in the financial and industrial centres of the United States. In many ways they have served their country in public and private life. Through the Graduates' Society and through such functions as are held at the Quinquennial Reunions they are enabled to maintain their interest in their Alma Mater and to keep burning within them that immeasurable spirit associated with their university. The Graduates' Society functions year in and year out. Branches located in other cities, and in other countries, provide opportunities for graduates there to foregather at regular intervals. But once in five years the work of the society is given public recognition as the halls of McGill again resound to the tread of returning sons and daughters.

Famous Graduates

Many of the famous graduates whose distinguished careers have reflected honor upon the university. Some names, of course, come instantly to mind. There was, for instance, the great Sir William Osler, one of the outstanding names in medical history. Graduating from McGill's Medical College in 1872, Sir William Osler returned in 1874 to remain for ten years as Professor of Medicine. His many reforms and tremendous interest in students were effective in establishing new standards of achievement. From McGill Sir William Osler went to Johns Hopkins where he assisted in making that institution the most scientific medical school in America. For the last fourteen years of his life he was Regius Professor at Oxford, England, where he died in 1919. Honored by doctors throughout the world, Sir William Osler was widely recognized outside his chosen profession as a scholar and cultured gentleman. His name continues to be an inspiration to students of McGill.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose name will ever be remembered in Canadian political history, graduated from McGill Faculty of Law in 1861. His association with McGill illustrates forcefully the contribution being made by the university to Canada's two races. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, only French-Canadian ever to hold the high office of Premier of Canada, long retained his interest in the affairs of McGill and in 1898 he was honored by the conferment of an honorary LL.D. degree by the university at which he had been a distinguished student.

Others whose names are well known, not only in Canada but abroad, and who spent their student days at Old McGill include: Hon. Sir John Abbott, Law, 1864; Hon. John Spratt Archibald, Arts, 1867; John Redpath Douglas, Journalism, 1890; Sir Andrew MacPhail, Canadian writer and educationalist, editor of the Canadian Medical Journal, Arts, 1888, Medicine 1891, LL.D. 1921; Dr. Frank D. Adams, geologist, Applied Science 1878, M.A., 1884, D.Sc., 1902, LL.D. 1921; H. M. Tory, former head of the National Research Council, Arts, 1890, M.A., 1896, D.Sc., 1903, LL.D., 1908; C. F. Rice, president of the Bell Telephone Company, Applied Science, 1897; Arthur B. Wood, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company Arts, 1892; Chief Justice R. A. E. Greenfield, Chief Justice of the Province of Quebec and Chancellor of Bishop's University, Arts, 1863, Law, 1866; General A. G. L. McNaughton, president of the National Research Council, Applied Science, 1910, LL.D., 1920; Gladstone Murray, newly-appointed manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, founder and first editor of the McGill Daily, Arts, 1912; Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, Arts, 1910; Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States and former Minister to Japan, Law, 1898.

Many others could be added to the list of distinguished McGill graduates who have taken or are taking today important parts in industry, science and public life. Thus while McGill's graduates return to do her honor next week, the university itself will honor four of its former students, conferring honorary degrees upon P. B. Ross, publisher of the Ottawa Journal; Dr. Maude Abbott, internationally famed for her work on congenital heart disease; Nevil Norton Evans who on his retirement this year ended a long period of useful service as Professor of Chemistry; Dr. William McCleure, of Chefoo University, Tainan, China, an outstanding figure in Chinese medical education; and Sherman Charles Swift, blind librarian of the Canadian Institute for the Blind and editor of the Braille Courier.

McGill's contributions to Montreal and to Canada are uncounted and unmeasurable. But by her graduates she shall be judged, and throughout her century of history her students have gone forth to play notable parts in the development of a city and a nation.

GRADUATES STUDENTS TO HOLD FIRST MEETING

The first and only business meeting of the Graduate Students Society will be held in the Chemistry Building on Thursday, October 22, at 5 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers and to discuss plans for the social and athletic activities of the society for the coming year. Last year it was the general consensus of opinion that the society had one of the most successful seasons it has had since it was formed several years ago. This year it is hoped to make things go over even better than they did last season and for this reason all graduate students are urged to turn out for the organization meeting on Thursday.

The aims for which this society was formed are to provide some medium through which graduate students may meet the fellow members of their faculty and get to know each other. Since most of the students come from other universities this provides an opportunity to learn something about other colleges throughout Canada and the United States. In the past general meetings have been held monthly at which some special speaker was heard and opportunities were provided for those interested in bridge and dancing. In addition to this the society has held a dance during the season. On Thursday a chance will be given to anyone who has ideas for improving this year's program. Facilities are also provided for students interested in badminton.

BIOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF SOCIAL PROBLEMS OUTLINED AT MEETING

THE importance of the individual should be stressed before that of the state. This element pervaded the address given by Dr. Huskins at the meeting of the Social Problems Club last night at Strathcona Hall.

Throughout the whole of his address the speaker kept stressing the fact that the problem of the world is to make it a society for the help of each individual. He pointed out that whenever some law is brought up we should always consider what the effect on the individual would be.

To support the views of the biologist, he took as an example our own continent. To all intents and purposes North America is very wealthy. Yet we have not as yet succeeded in demolishing poverty. Our system is undoubtedly marvelous from the standpoint of production but not from that of human beings.

Fallacy of Economic System

Even the economist himself can see the fallacy of the economic system. Quoting the famous English economist Maynard Keynes, "It is wrong for the state to spend money only on an economic basis, ignoring entirely the welfare of the individual." The speaker suggested that if we were all to adopt a biological point of view, we would know exactly what we are doing and the effect it would have on the individual.

He concludes his address with the assertion that, under undertaking any project, we should never fail to realize the effect it would have on the individual.

STUDENTS REVIEW NIGHT LIFE, SLUMS, FACTORIES OF CITY

LED by Prof. J. King Gordon, McGill students will analyze Montreal's social and economic problems during the "Know-Your-City" Week-end, which opens with a sociological review of the city in the Social Research Laboratory tomorrow at 7.30 p.m. Subsequently, an observation and inspection tour will be conducted through the city till the small hours of the morning. Saturday evening representatives of the relief commission and the Front Populaire will speak briefly, and questions will be addressed to a Fascist leader. Sunday evening, the first Chapel service of the term will be in charge of Prof. Gordon. Prof. Marsh will outline his recent trip through Europe and Russia at Open House afterwards.

SOPHS, FROSH AT ODDS OVER HAZING

Hectic doings are in the wind for the Mock Parliament between Sophomores and Freshmen this evening at 8:15 when the topic "Resolved, that Hazing should be reestablished on the Campus" is debated in the Union Ballroom. The Second Year men are after the Frosh for having decided to uphold the affirmative and are rounding up as many as possible to frighten the First Year men from the Government seats.

One of the newly-appointed executives of the Sophs was seen haranguing the more apathetic men to turn out en masse to forcibly eject the Freshmen who uphold the reestablishment of hazing. For, as he stated, "How can a new, inexperienced man know anything about hazing, and, anyways, if they want hazing, we'll give them plenty of it." These words went the rounds and must have scared the intimidated Freshmen into hiding.

It was difficult to find any Freshmen around to answer this challenge. The leader of the affirmative, J. W. McNaughton, recent Bovey Shield winner, is likely trying to preserve himself until the actual time of appearance arrives. The negative side of the battle will be upheld by Geoffrey Hess and Ivor Williams. Hess, an upper year man, had to tackle the situation, because the Sophs were too dangerous.

The united ranks of the Sophomores will be on hand to forcibly eject the Freshmen from their stand if they persist in the policy already adopted. Should the First Year Hardies have sufficient courage to back up their convictions, there will be a merry time in store for all. The novelty of free admission should in itself draw a large attendance.

REDS DEFEND TRACK TITLE AT STADIUM

HISTORIC Molson Stadium will once again be the mecca of all track and field enthusiasts, when the Intercollegiate Track Meet gets under way on Friday afternoon at one o'clock. The Redmen will be the defending champions and will be gunning for their seventh straight title. The other entries received to date are from the powerful Toronto Varsity squad, the dangerous Western team, and the small but select Queen's entry, while McMaster is still to be heard from. Student Coupons will be honored at the gate and a record crowd is awaited.

Despite the fact that McGill will be opposed by several world-renowned trackmen, chances are good that Van Wagner's boys will come out on the winning side. The Red relay team will be under a new setting this year, since last year's stalwarts, Edwards, Amaron and Nobbs have all graduated. However, others have stepped into their boots and great things are expected from Bourne, Pounder, Mason, Record and Purdie. This event will be run off between halves of Saturday's McGill-Toronto rugby game.

Two of Canada's Olympic representatives at Berlin will occupy the spotlight. Johnny Loaring, who finished a close second to the great Glen Hardin in the 400 metre hurdles, will be competing in the 100 and 400 yard dashes, and the 120 and 220 yard hurdles under the Western colours. O'Connor will lead the Blueboys in the hurdle events. The hurdle events shape up as one of the most evenly contested races, with Record of McGill the often favoured limber-topper.

Coch Van Wagner has added Tom Richert and Kalfas to the Red squad, giving McGill a total of 21 contestants. McGill will have a representation in every event. The foreign contingent is composed of numerous stars. Western has Ferris and Fleming, members of the Empire championship schoolboy team. Toronto is confident of capturing the broad jump, with both of the Brown brothers entered.

Into a Liberal Education Place Bombs; Stir Well..

"Striking students at Memorial high school in Campbell, O., were dispersed when police threw tear gas bombs into their midst."

According to the Associated Press the students were protesting the transfer of a favorite teacher. The bombs were ordered in by the chief of police of Campbell.

High school students today are experiencing a liberal education. They are learning more than their dull outmoded texts could ever tell them. They are learning civics outside the classroom. And they are getting more than one point of view.

Formerly students used to be told that the American system of government gave them certain rights and liberties and they hadn't much occasion to question these statements.

But now it seems that they are to be given a chance actually to test them. A favorite instructor at this Ohio school was dismissed.

Nine hundred of the thousand students enrolled protested. And in spite of the "rights" they were taught for a civics quiz, they were driven from their campus by the men ostensibly employed to safeguard those rights.

The students are however rather lucky.

("They took flight to a nearby hill, many of them coughing and sneezing".)

They are lucky they weren't beaten by the police or suspended from school and deprived of the opportunity to continue their liberal education.—California Daily Bruin.

Freshmen Gather For Dance And Banquet Monday

Further plans have been made by the executive for the annual Freshmen and Freshettes dinner and dance which is to be held this coming Monday evening at the Union. The guest speaker for the Freshmen dinner is to be announced in tomorrow's Daily.

After the dinner the freshmen and freshettes will meet upstairs in the Union to dance to the music of Howard Simpson and his orchestra. A sing song will add to the colour of the evening's entertainment.

The boys and girls will be welcomed by Norman Cuke, class president of class '40. He will be assisted by the dance committee and the patrons.

The admission to the dinner for the boys is 40 cents and for the girls 25 cents. The admission to the dance itself is 25 cents to all Freshmen and Freshettes.

Wasted Time

The other day I heard a gay coed remark sadly, "If only I didn't have to go to classes and study, college life would be perfect. Just think, we could run around all the time with never a need to worry about, not having our work for that eight o'clock tomorrow morning."

"It sounds good," sighed her companion, "but of course we know it could never happen."

She is right. It never will, and neither of them expect such a thing to come true. They are a part of that host of students who are blinded by the extra-curricular activities of college life.

College students fall into three classifications. There are those to whom school means classes in the daytime, and books till midnight. The second group is made up of the butterflies who make their appearance mostly at dances, football games and social functions. They are the ones who are too sleepy for their eight o'clock classes and who seldom know what it is to study. Those who make up the third class are the clever ones who, although they keep up with their studies, have time to attend dances and shows, too. They are usually the campus leaders, heading organizations and managing student affairs.

Statistics have shown that these last, who make good grades and are prominent in campus activities, are the ones who are successful later. They have had valuable experience in leadership and cooperation that is necessary in the business world.

Be wise. Go out to work. Plan your time to make the best out of it. You'll have time too, for fraternity smokers and University dances. Run your life; don't let it run you.

One of the best football players ever on West Virginia University campus was popular with his professors as well as with the fans. He did his class work carefully, making up lost assignments promptly. He was also a brilliant football star. Everyone admired him and marveled at his record. Somehow football players are expected to be stupid. He proved that such is not necessarily true.

"If you want a job done, appoint a busy person to do it." You have heard it many times, and how true it is. Think of how many active persons you know that are always being given more and more to do.

You know Janet—everyone does. She is active in the Student council, and president of Rhododendron, junior women's honorary. The dean of women wants an upper-class woman to aid a group of freshman girls to become adjusted to college life. She chooses Janet for the task. Why? Because she feels that although Janet is busy, she will find time for this one thing more.

How do they do it, these campus heroes and heroines? They have no more natural ability than you do. They have learned to budget their time. So can you. They manage their extra-curricular activities, do not let them get the upper hand. You can do likewise. Sit down and make out a schedule. Make a definite plan for each activity. Leave room for a dance or movie on Saturday night. You'll find you have more time than ever before if you make sure there are no wasted minutes or half hours.

Know what you will do with your every hour. Schedule a time each day

Players' Club.
COMMENCING its active program for the year, the Players'
Club yesterday held its first regular meeting in the Union Ballroom. The highlight of the day's business was the election of Dean Johnson as the club's honorary president to succeed Dr. Hendel in this position.
The plans for the year's work for the club were outlined by the officers. The plans include two major three-act productions—one of which, "Fly Away Home", has already been announced and also one to be chosen from several plays under consideration. Also the schedule for the "workshop" program was announced. This consists of two one-act plays—
"Murder in Hollywood" and "Rehearsal"—to be presented on Nov.
18, at the Central Y.M.C.A.
Male Students Needed
The most urgent need of the club is for men students. The two major male roles in the first big production are still open. First-night and leading thespians may have their talent tested for the major production today at three o'clock in the club office in the Union.
Classes for the shorter plays will also begin tomorrow at the same place from 1 to 2 p.m. and from 3 to 6 p.m.
SOCIOLOGICAL SOCIETY
The Sociological Society's meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 27,

Perowne, Dunphy, Jones
Star For Reds—Frosh
Handed Defeat By Loyola
Seconds Supreme
McGILL Freshman squad underwent their first defeat in three starts when the Loyola Seniors downed them yesterday afternoon at the Stadium to the tune of 14-1. The Frosh fielded a hard-hitting team which put on a wonderful display of forward passing but they were unable to make up for their faulty start.
McGill receiving on the kick-off fumbled at once and Loyola taking advantage of the break made a long plunge for a touchdown which they easily converted on a placement of Morley's. The Frosh at once went into action to tie the score but Loyola again recovered a fumble and Morley who alone starred for Loyola during the whole game, kicked for a rouge.
The Freshmen came back with a nice forward pass attack but they again fumbled and Loyola were able to put the ball in position for a placement kick which Morley easily handled to make the score 11-0 at half time. In the last part of the first half, McGill again opened up with an aerial attack and advanced to within a few yards of the Loyola goal but the time whistle blew before they were able to capitalize on their gain.
At the beginning of the second half the Freshmen showed signs of going to town when Cuke kicked for one point. But from then on the game was simply a matter of McGill with a superior and accurate aerial attack working their way into scoring position only to throw away their chances. They attempted two placements but both were unsuccessful and were run out.
McGill again put on a spurt with another terrible aerial attack which had the Loyola men worried and carried the ball up to the Maroon and White goal only to be stopped again by the time whistle.
The Frosh were a much tougher team than their opponents who seemed to have an injury every down during the last half. Morley stood out for the visitors with his beautiful, long, spiral punts gaining ground on every exchange. The Freshmen will have to learn to hold onto the ball even when their opponents do try to pull out the ball carrying arm.
Geology Field Trip
Pointe Claire will be the location for this Saturday's Geology field survey, weather permitting. A bus will leave Redpath Museum at 9:00 a.m. for those who do not go by private car, and will stop at Claremont Ave., Westhill Ave., Montreal West Station, and Broadway and 44th St., Lachine.

Spanish Delegates To Address Club
Representing the democratically elected Spanish Government, a delegation of Spanish officials will address an open meeting of the Social Problems Club this Friday at 5 o'clock. Among the notables are Marcelino Domingo, president of the Left Republican Party and former Minister of Education, Luis Sarasa, a Catholic Priest, and Signora Palencia, member of the Spanish Cortes and delegate from Spain to the League of Nations.
The delegates, about to embark on a nationwide tour, are all constitutional members of the Spanish Government. The theme of their address will be the Political Situation in Spain.
Included among the speakers will be a woman, Signora Palencia, famous for her address to the British Labour Congress at Edinburgh. The purpose of this meeting is to form a link between affairs abroad and student thought.
S.C.M. Finance Luncheon
There will be a luncheon for canvassers at 1 o'clock today in Strathcona Hall. The speaker will be Prof.
Eugene Forsey. All canvassers are expected to attend. Fred Price will give a report on the progress of the campaign to-date. The campaign will end with the Martlet Sale on Saturday.

Rugger Team Ties
Bankers in League
Game Yesterday
Play to Scoreless Draw on Lower Campus
READY FOR TORONTO
DISPLAYING speed, galore and passing par-excellence, the English Rugby squad held the once invincible
Bank of Montreal fifteen to a scoreless draw in a regular league game on the Campus yesterday afternoon before a large crowd. Due to a late start the game was played in the twilight, but this did not hinder the play to any serious degree. Previous to this game the Bankers had not been defeated or tied this season, and this clearly shows the calibre of the McGill team in holding one of the best teams in eastern Canada to a draw.
Every man on the Red team played heads up ball, although Dinning, Thompson, Foster and Ricker were standouts. Dinning was sensational in his kicking and tackling, and considering the fact that this is his first year at the game, he shows great possibilities of developing into a star. Thompson was spectacular in his kicking, tackling and especially broken field runs. Foster and Ricker were the pick of the forwards. Morewood starred for the Bank fifteen.
Show Improvement
Much credit must be given to the McGill quarters and halves by their improved showing over previous appearances. Their speed on the attack was as much as could be desired, while their passing was highly effective. The forwards rushed and dribbled well, and their scrum was strong, and equal to the more experienced Bankers'.
McGill opened the game by Thompson kicking to the Bankers. Play was centred around mid-field for a time and the backs of both teams were playing well. Montreal were given the first penalty kick of the game by a McGill offside, but Morewood's boot was away from the posts.
Play was resumed on the McGill 25 yard line, and from then on to the end of the half the Redmen kept the play in the Banker's end. Several times they nearly went over for tries, but each time were held back by a strong Bank defence on the try line. McGill were given two free kicks, but each time
Thompson's boot was off the mark.
The half ended with the score Bank of Montreal 0; McGill 0.
The Bankers held a decided edge in the second half, when the McGill Squad began to weaken, and several times
Montreal nearly went over for tries.
Dinning kicking was especially effective in this half, and his well placed kicks offset many a Bank rush. The game ended with Montreal pressing but to no avail. Final score: McGill 0; Bank of Montreal 0.
On Saturday afternoon at 1:15 p.m. on the Lower Campus, the Redmen will meet Toronto Varsity, titleholders for the last three years in a crucial intercollegiate game. If McGill should win this game, they will take the championship, which they have not held since the season of 1932-33. Last year in Toronto the Blues drubbed the local boys to the tune of 15-6 and indications point that they will have as strong or even stronger team on Saturday.

Flying Club
On Saturday afternoon a limited number, probably fifteen of the Mc-Gill Flying Club will make a tour of the Canadian Vickers Plant. If interested list is posted on the noticeboard in the English Bldg. As two cars are necessary kindly put a note by your name if you have one.
The club membership has been doubled this year therefore it is quite necessary that those wishing to fill out applications do so at once.
These may be obtained from Harry Grimsdale or officers of the club.

ADVICE
Buy all your clothes in a high quality store. This is particularly good advice if you pay only moderate prices — then your clothes need most the taste, discrimination and wearing qualities that a quality store can supply best.
If your budget dictates a $22.50 suit or $30.00 overcoat, don't be dismayed by our reputation for quality clothing. The fact that we are accustomed to selecting merchandise of high character qualifies us to choose moderate priced clothing with the same good taste and discrimination. And, regardless of what price you pay, we are never satisfied until you are.
Why not drop into our store during the next day or two. If you don't do anything but look we shall not complain. You are welcome.

Senior Hockeyists Practice on Friday
THE Hockey season is beginning once again and by the work done by the men under the instruction of Bert Light, McGill can be assured to have a strong team. Gymnastic practices are now in full swing either at the stadium or at the High School.
Coach Bobby Bell seems to be very confident on the chances of his team for the coming season. He has a large number of newcomers, among them:
Emmerson of Harvard and Bruce Crutchfield, a brother of Gordie Crutch-field and the more famous Nelson. All last year's first team members are back with the exception of Freddy Wigla and Tommy Morse.
The first practice on ice will take place at the Forum Friday afternoon from 2-3 and on Saturday afternoon from 5-6. All aspirants for the Senior team must attend these practices, for the first league game will take place on Nov. 4th.
